

2015 Summer Down Under Tutorial 7-10 December 2015, Waiheke Island, New Zealand.

I know many of you are interested in getting a feel for our occasional DC Tutorials, so here for your edification and enjoyment are the unedited Forum Posts from our last two Tutorials: Waiheke Island, New Zealand, December 2013 and Los Angeles, USA, May 2015. We are returning to fabulous Waiheke Island for our 2015 end of year event and hope to see and meet many of you there. Some will be new to DC Tutorials and some will be returning to brush up their trading skills and update their knowledge. Whether you are trading a small account occasionally or are a big Hedge Fund Honcho, DC Tutorials are the only step if you aspire to be really good at this game. Detailed syllabus for the Waiheke Island 2015 Tutorial and accommodation arrangements etc will be emailed to you over the weekend if you are on our mailing list. If not, please email me at jneedham@thedanielcode.com for full details or with any questions.

As an LA conference attendee, I can confirm MC154's testimonial. As a hedge fund trading advisor living/breathing price action for years at the hard right edge of the chart, the DC is unlike anything I have ever seen or imagined. It is indeed the DNA of markets.

Behavioral finance is all the rage now that the random walk theory has been shown to have little or no practical value. Instead, now, among the market smart set, it's all about understanding the mechanics of irrational human choices and its consequent trading activity. Yet another monumental waste of time and energy if you're passionately interested in what is the true driving force behind market price action. Above all of the nonsensical theories, is the quiet surety of the DC which controls all markets.

I slowly began to believe in the DC when using DC ratios to measure price retracements: I found them astoundingly accurate compared with fibs with which I had always had an uneasy relationship. The DC is uncanny and startling: the blue lines are indeed high-power price magnets which are many orders of magnitude more precise than standard institutional support/resistance levels derived from price-volume studies or market profiles (formerly my bread and butter).

The DC, and most importantly John's careful, intelligent elucidation of it, is the best trading edge one could ever hope for. Give thanks a) that you found your way to this site b) that this knowledge is in the hands of that rarest of breeds, a gentleman. That's rarely (NEVER) the case in this industry which is brimming over with quacks and charlatans.

Lastly, if you're just dipping your toe in the water here as I was before the LA conference, remember that Newton's universal law of gravitation, Maxwell's electromagnetism, and certainly Einstein's relativity were each regarded as absurdities before they were shown to be clearly and demonstrably true. They aligned with observable physical reality, not someone's plausible yet unproven idea of how things work. The DC aligns magnificently with the observable reality of market behavior. Do yourself a favor and turn off CNBC and Bloomberg, drop whatever you're working on, and devote yourself to the DC exclusively. You'll see that while it is perfectly absurd by all modern market metrics, it is nonetheless valid and true in spite of one's personal beliefs and theories about how markets are supposed to work. How liberating it is to be wrong!!!

It's been pretty much 3 weeks since returning to Australia from the DC Tutorial in Los Angeles. And just as John said, all the pieces of the puzzle are slowly starting to make a little more sense !. I am now 'seeing' the DanielCode more than ever, and the DanielCode Trading Channels as John reminded us many times, are proving something of immense value.

The recent run-up and subsequent pull-back in the USDJPY, now makes sense. The current price action in GBPJPY is a lot clearer...

The consolidation in Silver at its current lows, has been another example of what was taught at the tutorial coming true once I returned to my 'Post-DanielCode Tutorial' life !. and then there's the MoonBeams, which I continue to study and find astonishing..

The CADJPY, GBPCHF and EURUSD all seem a lot clearer to trade now as well....the 'FOG' is slowly lifting !

I was able to catch-up today with the only other 'Aussie' who attended the LA tutorial, who fortunately lives only 15 mins away.... after nearly 2 hours talking everything DC, we realised that we had learned a lot, but still HAVE a lot to learn.

The reason for this post is to hopefully, share the fact that 3 weeks after the tutorial everything that John 'Said/Taught/Showed' our group is starting to fall into place... at least in my mind. On several occasions, John repeated the phrase that - "The DanielCode is the DNA of markets !"...with what I am seeing, I cannot dispute this..

For those who read this and think I may be on a 'naive high' post the tutorial, then all I can say is that whilst working for some large well known banks and broking firms (well known in Australia and the US), I was 'made' to study all the requisite topics/subjects to be at the 'pointy end of the business'... essentially, a waste of time compared to the DC...

So thanks again to 'Providence' and to John.

From hds6161 today:

Morning (here) John, hope you're well after the long trip...after many years of waiting this past weeks tutorial was all that I anticipated and more...first, to get a chance to meet the man behind the material and second a unique educational birthday present to myself a long time coming...the bonus being a chance to share it with an old friend amongst a wonderful group of individuals...while a light switch moment has yet to occur the "dimmer" switch is slowly turning up...perhaps less (or more to keep the liver in shape?) intoxicating liquids might have been helpful...however, when in Rome...in short, despite certain claims of fool hardy spending by some I feel the price paid to be money paid forward toward a better future with practice...this month is my annual hell month with a full work load for summer clients arriving for the season so time will be short for studying but, again, thanks for your sharing of this knowledge with us and I look forward to the opportunity to attend another tutorial in the future.

Nice email from RA who attended the LA Tutorial and learned about fast moves and counter trends. This got him short Gold on Wednesday 06/03 and he wrote to advise he closed out these trades at the appropriate DC target on Friday for a nice $2000 per one contract. Good trading Ray and you are well on the way to winning your Tutorial expenses in a week or so!!

Somebody said " Whatever It Takes" and that is exactly the way it is.

I came across the Daniel Code about a year ago , just started reading and watched all the webinars. It took some time but after this I started trading a sim account only using DC protocols and adding some extra's that were shown during the webinars and I did just fine or should I say better than average !!!

After 6 month of sim trading I attended my first tutorial .

During those 3 days we took a journey from 101 trading up to pro level trading , John showed us some magical stuff that I have never seen before and all the new material can be used with our basic tools and that makes it a beauty on its own , easy and simple.

Thanks for a beautiful time in L.A , learning a lot of new stuff and meeting nice people from all over the world I just had a super week.

Bye bye John and let the Magic begin.

Thanks John . MELA , Crans Montana , Switzerland

Thanks for the comments/observations on the 2015 LA Summer Tutorial at Manhattan Beach, LA. folks. Keep them coming.

One of my clients who had the fortune/misfortune of not doing Latin at school, mandatory for those contemplating a Law Degree back in the day, thought the phrase "ne plus ultra" in namelocb's post below was a typo!! In fact it is a well known Latin phrase with the definition below:

ne plus ul·tra noun: ne plus ultra: the perfect or most extreme example of its kind; the ultimate. "he became the ne plus ultra of bebop trombonists" synonyms: last word, ultimate, perfect example, height, acme, zenith, epitome, quintessence

I've been in the hedge fund space since 1998 in all aspects of operations including market analyst and stock picker. The right edge of the chart is no longer a scary place for me. All of my work has been focused on careful risk management and picking the very best technical entries w/ as many catalysts telling me I'm most likely correct. That is, like everyone who survives as a trader using well-known public methods, I have developed a trading strategy that has at its core a keen appreciation of how easy it is to get it wrong and mess it up. After the LA conference, I can see that I can now leave all that behind and instead focus on that which really moves markets: DC numbers. John has always made this claim. After the LA conference, I now believe him. Future price action is already baked into prior price action if you know how to analyze the market properly (which I am now convinced no one on the planet knows how to do thoroughly with the exception of John). The material he teaches is epic. There are no proper words for it. John's work is the ne plus ultra of trading. You'll happily eat humble pie realizing the technical analysis principles you have spent years absorbing are in fact either meaningless, or are ripples on the ocean in the wake of the giant luxury liner of Daniel Code price action. John showed us these very mechanisms which underlie price action itself. I had forgotten that was even possible, but thankfully, had not given up hope. After endless toil, how did Newton feel about the universe when he discovered the universal law of gravitation? No doubt less anxious. I feel the same way about the markets now. They're no longer a mystery. Having spent my entire life on this exciting yet difficult journey, what's better than that?

Attending the LA tutorial was one of the best decisions I have ever made. The thorough examination of the hidden order of markets which John guided us through has instilled a high degree of confidence in my trading. The ability to see what others cannot is a gift that I am very grateful to John for bestowing on me, and I am looking forward to honing my new skills even further as time goes on. How good do you want to be... or should I say, how wealthy do you want to be?

I've arrived back in Australia and already back at my "day" job in institutional investment management. There have been a number of investment strategy meetings I have had to attend listening to the my professional peers waffle on about where they think the markets will go. If they only knew...all markets turn at the Daniel Code numbers.

I feel quite empowered now that I have attended the tutorial. Don't get me wrong, it is by no means a walk-in-the-park. I still have hours and hours of work ahead of me before I master this discipline called the Daniel Code. But what we all learnt in those three days in the tutorial, and the relaxed sessions outside chatting with John and all the guys has given me an insight that I would never been able to do on my own.

I can't thank John enough for what he has passed on to me, in fact to all those that attended. I am eagerly waiting for the next tutorial as this is only the beginning.

Cheers, Michael

BANG!... After 11 Months of reading every DC article and listening to just about every DC video, and taking copious pages of notes, I finally bit the bullet and had to come to the DC tutorial in LA.

I've been down the path of GANN, Fibs, Natal Charts, Planetary Alignments, Automated Trading, Black Boxes and all other manner of 'Hocus Pocus'. I can understand people's skepticism of the 'origin' of Mr Needham's work, but I leave this tutorial knowing that there is still work ahead to make the DC work for me, but at least now I've left the highway of 'Confusion' and am now solely focused in one direction... that of the DanielCode.

After many years working in large well known broking firms and banks and studying Technical Analysis at an industry recognised organisation, nothing I was ever taught comes close to what Mr Needham taught myself and our group in this last week.

Many of my fellow students at this tutorial learnt enough in the 1st day to have our heads spinning. In short, we learnt quite quickly that there IS a LOGIC and ORDER to the movements of the markets ONCE you are taught what to look for... its that simple.. Learn the DanielCode and the 'fog' will be lifted.

So I would just like to personally thank Mr Needham and (of course Daniel) for all his work in bringing this body of work to us. He certainly didn't have to share all his knowledge with us - the "Great Unwashed" !.

In the words of someone with a greater grasp of the English language than myself, to sum up the DanielCode, I refer to Mr William Blake - " What is now proved was once only imagined".

Thanks again John

I see I'm quoted many times in the DC summer tutorial syllabus. I still stand by my comments. They are as valid as ever. The DC numbers are the biggest discovery in the financial world and nobody seems to notice. They are the mathematical proof that God exists, that JCN is a whizkid by discovering them and that we are all governed by providence. Thank God Needham saved me from random walk theories.

In this Easter holiday season we remember the resurrection of Christ. After being put to death to take the punishment deserved by others for the sins of the world, Jesus rose again from the dead. For us it's a lesson in humility and respect, probably the most important characteristics you need to be a good human and a good DC trader.

John

looking forward to your webinar and thanks all at the Waiheke tutorial for a lot of input and patience offered to the newbies (Sage/ Mustang/ Fluff / Shift4 & co). A lot to learn but the great atmosphere contributed hugely. Also Frank for the very good presentation.

John I could see you were full of admiration for my common sense approach to dress (aka dress sense). Jandals in the sub tropical pouring rain (please, not thongs - that's oh so Australian). A stroke of brilliance and if my trading skills reflect the same insights, all shall be good. Ha Ha Ha.

ChrisM - wrong Norfolk but thanks. This is the down under version that JN described. Two hours flight to the nearest landfall. Never seen by the Earl of Norfolk who Capt Cook named it after. Originally the island where hardened UK criminals were sent for heinous crimes like stealing loafs of bread. Later given over to the families of the mutineers of the Bounty by Queen Victoria. But enough of the history lesson - its all online FYI.

Chris if you're lost about the jandals/thongs, think of the UK equivalent - roman sandals and long white socks on the beaches of Brighton

Happy new year all, good trading and thanks John. You offer a lot of very powerful insights to learn from.

Phil

ChrisMcD: Your namesake is on Norfolk Island, Australia. Norfolk Island is a small island in the Pacific Ocean located between Australia, New Zealand and New Caledonia, 1,412 kilometres (877 mi) directly east of mainland Australia's Evans Head, and about 900 kilometres (560 mi) from Lord Howe Island. The island is part of the Commonwealth of Australia, but it enjoys a large degree of self-governance. Together with two neighbouring islands, it forms one of Australia's external territories. It has 2,300 people living on 35 km<sup>2</sup>. Its capital is Kingston and where the Bounty Mutineers moved to after Pitcairn Island.

But likely one of your mob originally. He has a particularly classy line of outfits particularly the Norfolk Island "formal" gear. HA!!

The video of Frank's 4th Seal presentation is severely corrupted due to the amazingly slow internet connection with Europe. We are trying to get it reconstituted but that may take a week or more. In the meantime the PowerPoint that the presentation was based on is being sent to Waiheke attendees today.

Was great meeting our new friends and catching up with previous guests. Waiheke Ferries are a real trap being so close to "Soul" at the Auckland Viaduct. Fluffy met me at Auckland airport and we were having a quiet Bloody Mary as we waited to meet Fluffy's better half. The drinks and ambience was so good that we missed the 4, 5 and 6 PM ferries and had to scramble to make the 7:30 version. But it was a sunny day on Auckland's great harbour and some of the best BMs ever!!

Thanks to all who contributed in various ways headed by Mary C and Fluffy who hatched the Waiheke plan at the April Las Vegas Tutorial plus Mustang, Sage and Frank who gave us a peerless 4th Seal presentation and of course Shift4 who was the master of night time ceremonies and backed up in daylight to give an innovative and sensational GMAJ training session together with Fluffy.

Sage assisted by Mustang introduced us to some new dance steps as she made her FractZen presentation and all agreed the food and facilities at our host "The Venue" was likely the best yet.

My personal thanks to Peter A who shielded me from the weather and played up severely after dark.

Work hard; Play hard. And we certainly did!!

It was great to see so many ladies at the Tutorial. It certainly adds a touch of class.

The 'ITangi' Beach / Waiheke Island combo was the best Tutorial location and venue that I've been to. Thanks go to Mary, Fluffy, Sage & Mustang for their organisation efforts.

Thanks also to Mustang for 'volunteering' to be the designated driver for Tuesday's long-lunch at Poderi Crisci. (Great choice Fluffy!) For my DC buddies not at the Tutorial who received a Skype video - I apologise. I blame Fluffy, Mary, Rose & Tequila. (My dear mother always told me, "...just because something seems like a good idea at the time, doesn't make it a good idea..." That sage advice was ringing in my ears as I reflected on Thursday night's photographs...)

Some juicy GMAJ & CTP futures' trades this week team! (eg: ES, GX, HG, NQ, SI & YM.) No doubt, Norfolk Phil was all over them like a seagull on a chip. (Phil, I trust you tipped-off Springbok Darryl who had just returned from his yacht in the Bahamas.)

So, Tutorial paid for. Take Friday off and have an early tequila; or in Pete's case, a single malt.

Panama Michael - please call me, or visit! (Room 17). I need to know which works better - Amex or Visa?

Honest John (aka 'Long John Silver') - I'd like to say I missed you, but...

Thanks so much to, Fluffy, Mary, Sage and Mustang for their contributions to organizing the tutorial, Great place, great venue. Very nice to catch up with everybody and to meet all the new people and hope to see you all again.

I was one of the newbies at the recent Waiheke DC tutorial. I found it very challenging and certainly rewarding. Thanks, John, for your presentations and thanks to the DC veterans who led some sessions and provided crucial support around the edges. I can't emphasize enough how well the positive atmosphere of collegiality helped the learning process.

The parts of North Island we visited before the course were all awesome. And Waiheke was indeed a wonderful location for the event. Well done, Mary and Fluffy. The weather conspired to keep us off the water on Thursday afternoon allowing continued concentration on the DC approaches. So much the better! I felt that every second at the course was precious time not to be wasted.

Sitting at home now, sorting through my notes and reflecting, I feel as if a very special door has been opened up. Stepping through will require hard work and humility -- maintaining and fostering a deep respect for a physical and social universe moved in mysterious ways by some very special numbers.

Back home and back to work after the Waiheke Tutorial. We had a glorious 4th and 5th Seal presentation from Frank, real insights into FractZen from Sage and Mustang and some serious training (drill?) on GMAJ from Shift4 and Fluffy. I think this Tutorial's newbies are the best equipped that we have produced so far.

Tim Birch the Director of Programming at Trade Navigator was our special guest, and with the higher level of understanding of what we do that Tim has gained, I am confident that all of our programs will appear simpler and work better after Tim gets back to Colorado Springs in the New Year.

As per usual the quality of the teaching at the DC tutorial was only exceeded by the social activity each day (can't remember the nights). Apparently there is a photo circulating where Shift4 and I are referred to as the bookends. Shift4, I have never seen that teaching technique used before: a shot of tequila for every incorrect answer. What an attentive class you had! Good of you to make an example of yourself. Frank, your generosity in staying up until after midnight to teach the 4th and 5th degree lines and time cycles was much appreciated by everyone. Mark your calendars for the same place, same time next year.

What a stunning place for a tutorial. Thank you MaryC and Fluffy Cuffs for organizing it all. The venue was the best of any tutorial I have been to and the accommodation next door was lovely too. Thanks John for taking a punt on Waiheke. I look forward to a very prosperous 2014 after practicing my new skills. As always John dropped a new trading gem into our dc goodie bag in the form of Double on Close. All the new DC graduates will be well-versed in Daniel Code trading protocols after Shift4 introduced a revolutionary teaching tool. Suffice it to say we now have some new dc members who will become excellent traders.

Here is some additional details so no-one gets lost - shift please read carefully -

Air bus departs from the international terminal to Auckland City every 10 minutes on a week day (7am to 7pm) and every 15 minutes on the weekends(6am to 6pm).

The last bus stop is the ferry terminal.

Walk from the Pier 1 terminal (where bus stops) over to Pier 2 which is the Waiheke Terminal. (It will take you all of 1min)

The ferry are regular – weekdays (5.20am to 11.45pm) and weekends (7am to 9.30pm)

See www.fullers.co.nz for detail.

The ferry trip takes 35mins. All of the buses (all two of them) meet every ferry. Get on the Onetangi bus and ask to be dropped off at the Onetangi apartments. They stop outside.

Shuttles, taxis and rental cars also meet every boat.

Attention: Tutorial Attendees. If you know your flight arrival details and are happy to post them here, you may find others who can share the journey in from the airport to the ferry terminal with you. Remember to check the ferry timetable as you may need accommodation in Auckland that night if its too late for sailings. John will be hoisting a red Campari flag on Waiheke if you need guidance to the hallowed halls of DC worship (the local pub).

Here's the ferry link:

100% in 6 Months-Like That?

The purpose of Danielcode Tutorials is to teach you the techniques and provide you the unique tools that allow you to make big money trading. Regulations prevent me from telling you the possibilities once you have seen that the Danielcode controls all markets, but occasionally a student will write to report progress and I am allowed to share that with you.

Today's message comes from Dick B who many of you met at our Vegas Tutorial in April. Dick is an amateur trader who runs a successful business in St Charles, MO and whilst he has dabbled in trading for some years he really became serious after the Vegas Tutorial. He writes today to say: "By the way, since the Las Vegas tutorial I doubled my sim account in 6 months. I believe I could have done better than that if I didn't exits so many trades early. So thanks! I little more practice and confidence and I hope to trade live again." Dick B.

This is by no means an isolated instance. Many of our Tutorial graduates experience this level of returns and more and so can you after attending a Danielcode Tutorial. We have 2 vacant places for the Tutorial next month in New Zealand after late cancellations and this gives you the chance to join Dick and others in the very highest level of trading performance. Details of the Waiheke Tutorial are on the NEWS page and I suggest you email me today if you seriously want to learn how to create these phenomenal returns. Note that Dick, like most of our members is busy running a decent sized business and is very much a part time trader. Our part time amateurs outclass 99% of the pros with the Danielcode Tutorial tools and trading techniques. So if you are serious about trading excellence, this is for you. Thanks for sharing this with us Dick.

Closer to the 21st Anniversary of the 21st Birthday I suspect, Shift4.

A guy doesn't ascend to rank of Major at 31. Especially in the rigorous and grueling Aussie war machine.

Shift - have you been to Stonyridge? I have a few bottles of Obsidian we can give to JCN - he may never recover -

On another note ..

The apartment booking deadline has been extended until 24th October - no guarantees after that and only 8 of the 1 bedroomed ones left. I know some are still finalizing plans but we are all booked here and ready to go. JCN has just confirmed the charter boat so all you all need to do is come down to the bottom of the world !

Good suggestion Shift. I will relay that request to TN.

Scary thought what Mustang and you will get up to on your shopping trip to the vineyards. Going AWOL for more than 24 hours is a risk I guess.

Of course warm Pacific Ocean, sunshine and ice cold beer is always a great option.

Mary C and Sage who are coordinating this Tutorial for me have negotiated the Winter rate to be available for attendees in mid Summer!! Quite a feat.

But you must complete your bookings at:

Onetangi Beach Apartments 5-7 Fourth Avenue, Onetangi Beach Waiheke Island, Auckland, NZ
Phone: +64 9 372 0003 Free Phone: 0800 ONETANGI www.onetangi.co.nz

Facebook.com/OnetangiBeachApartments

by 15th October. There is lots of private accommodation available on the Island but the main group will be at Onetangi Beach Apartments so book now to avoid being parked elsewhere.

Our upcoming Danielcode Tutorial will be held on the beautiful Waiheke Island in New Zealand's Hauraki Gulf a 35 minute trip from New Zealand's commercial capital Auckland, your international destination port in New Zealand on 3-6 December 2013.

In 3 days I will teach you everything you have ever wanted to know about markets including a range of proven trading programs and the mysterious 4th and 5th Seal which forecast both the time and price of future market turns with amazing accuracy. Many of you have seen this already. It is to my knowledge the only accurate forecaster of important future market price action.

Our new Fractalian and FractZen programs ensure that you will never be blindsided by market action again. We do not claim to know what markets will do tomorrow but we most assuredly know what the probabilities are and how to trade any eventuality.

Our now legendary GMAJ volatility aggregating program continues its astonishing performance but there are a range of subtleties that you need to learn to get the best from this and other Danielcode methods. To this we now add our new Double-on-Close trading method that requires just 20 minutes a day of your attention at any time after markets close. This will be popular with those who have limited time to apply to trading and for those seeking a less intense style of trading.

We don't hold these Tutorials often so I do urge you to make the commitment to becoming a better trader and ensuring your financial independence.

Waiheke is not your usual commercially developed Island so accommodation for this event and hence reservations for the Tutorial are limited, so please email me today to reserve your place.

The detailed syllabus and arrangements are now posted on the Home page.

Shift4 is canvassing the possibilities of a room mate for the Waiheke Tutorial. There have been some suggestions from the Waiheke support team aka Mary C and Sage and Shift's responses are quite hilarious and I thank you for the good belly laugh you gave me today my friend.

Equally hilarious in my always cynical view is that I and others know full well the room mate that Shift is seeking but our support team are being purposely obscure on the blindingly obvious!!

But Danielcode Tutorials are wondrous and mysterious occasions so who knows what ships pass in the night?

Tutorial syllabus and promo have been delayed by my lack of internet access for which on behalf of our monopoly Telco I do apologise (be sure that they won't), and Terry will email to all tomorrow.

Looking forward to seeing many of you on Waiheke in the Down Under Summer 3-6 December.

From another thread on the GMAJ PRO auto trades since Wednesday last week:

JCN () Sep 10, 2013 - 10:10pm GMT

1 second ago

Open equity now $17,129 at Tuesday's close with Russell starring with a long trade now at +$7320 and Sugar also long at +$5664.

I am not starting an on-going commentary on program results but merely wanted to highlight the enormous capacity of the GMAJ program for those who are interested in the best of pro trading.

And a little knowledgeable human intervention can make it still better as I will teach you at the Waiheke Island, New Zealand Tutorial in December. Better get there if you want to be able to make these sort of returns.

JCN () Sep 10, 2013 - 10:03pm GMT

7 minutes ago

Nice runs in our auto trade program again this week. CL is +$1330; DX +$820; ES +$1412; Gold +$1810; Sugar +$4785; Silver +$1775; and Russell +$6200. Copper is $1300 underwater and Wheat is also sad but better than $15K open equity is nice enough.

A number of people have suggested that alcohol being served to them at Charlie Farley's has rendered them unable to undertake their normal daily tasks, and have considered never drinking it again. Should the sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages at Charlie Farley's be curtailed to protect those unable to protect themselves?"

Things to do while you watch money pour into your account thanks to Daniel:

1. Daydream about Waiheke.

2. Build a playlist on i-tunes to listen to while walking down Onetangi beach.
3. Paint nails
4. Make a list of all the people you have met at other tutorials and ponder why they have not booked yet. (All excuses in writing please).
5. Google charter boats for the fishing trip. (Please leave your name here if you can dive).
6. Post something on the forum as JCN would like to know if the forum has a pulse.

Mary C and Sister Sage are both long time DC members who have attended many DC Tutorials. They have kindly been looking after the arrangements for me for December's Waiheke Island Tutorial. This is a magnificent little island in the Hauraki Gulf about a 40 minute ferry trip from Auckland, New Zealand. I will get the syllabus out in the next week or so but expect all of the biggies; The 4th Seal, Fractalian trading, GMAJ and time cycles as well as better ways to trade the T.03 and Blue line signals.

We will have a fishing trip on the Thursday and our usual group dinner etc. This Tutorial will be a power house so make sure you book early as accommodation on Waiheke is limited. This is not a big commercialised island but has been described as a typical NZ farm in the ocean. It is the very definition of charming and you will love the experience.

Additionally Sage can put you in touch with the folks to organise your tour of the rest of the land of the long white cloud. Don't miss this.

These details from Mary C today:

We now have details for Waiheke Island Tutorial

The dates are

3rd December 6pm cocktail evening

4th December – all day Tutorial

5th December – all day Tutorial

6th December finish at 2pm

Please email info@onetangi.co.nz to book you accommodation. Ask to book the accommodation reserved under Thedanielcode.

You will be asked to pay a 50% deposit

They are holding the apartments for us so if you want the winter rate it is valid if you book before the end of September.

Beachfront apartment 1 bedroom upstairs $195.00NZ / night

Courtyard apartment 1 bedroom upstairs $175.00NZ / night

Courtyard studio downstairs $160.00NZ / night

If your bringing family / friends there are 2 bedroom/ 2 bathroom apartments available – they will be happy to help at the winter rate.

There will be further information emailed to you about the ferry timetable and transport from the wharf to the venue when you are confirmed as attending.

Kiwi Dollar is at 77 US cents today.

Hello Shift. How are you? 151 photos because instead of sorting them and selecting a few, I chose to spend my time updating 4th degree lines on my charts while painting my nails. Not one of me as I am absolutely the least photogenic person on the planet. I knew you would love the bar adjacent to the conference tables. Had to photograph it. JCN loved it too. Does this mean you'll pay a deposit on a room?

Hello everyone. Mustang and I flew to Auckland yesterday and spent the day on Waiheke Island with mary. I have uploaded a few pictures to my facebook page for you to look at, but you don't need to be on facebook to view them. Just click on this link:

<https://www.facebook.com/media/set/?set=a.10200477965374860.1073741827.1328965773&type=1&l=8391607a33>

We really need to get an idea of numbers. The accommodation adjacent to the venue requires a deposit to hold the rooms .

Here's a brief description I sent to JCN of where we will be holding the tutorial at Onetangi beach:

The venue is located on a stunning beach, with good coffee and food available from a lovely cafe on one side, and a bar/cafe/pub on the other. We personally sampled the pub food and confirmed it was very nice. There are lots of restaurants and activities on the island and on the water, but I suspect that we would probably not wander too far from the venue as the beach and views are so captivating. And its the middle of winter at the moment! The venue for the tutorial is modern, clean and well appointed. It was set up for a conference of around 20 people in a U shape, but it would be easy to turn the tables for everyone to look straight ahead. The photos I took show a couple of tables set up for a wedding - they were for a bride to view that day. They would normally be for a buffet. The accommodation adjacent to the venue is really lovely. The rooms are clean and modern. The staff were friendly and helpful. There are both ground floor and upstairs rooms available. The ground floor ones open onto a grassy courtyard area. Some of the upstairs rooms have views of the beach. I photographed Daryl and Mary while they paced the distance from the venue to the accommodation: 89. From venue to pub: 29. Thought you'd like those numbers!

Some venues are already getting booked out, so it would be wonderful to know if any of you are definitely coming. Thanks to those of you who have already done so. Its much appreciated. Anyone want me to take some photos? (Weather permitting as its mid-winter here and cloudy, wet conditions are forecast for our quick trip across the harbour).
